

Marie D. Gerhard-Herman,
MD
Brigham & Women's Hospital; Department of Cardiology

Honoree from the Celebration of Gratitude
2009

Dr. Gerhard-Herman combines an impressive academic record with a demonstrated commitment to clinical teaching. Dr. Gerhard-Herman graduated from medical school in 1987 and completed her residency in Internal Medicine at Boston City Hospital, where she served as a chief resident in 1991. She completed both a cardiovascular fellowship at Brigham and Women's Hospital, and the Clinical Investigator Training Program. She currently holds appointments in the Department of Medicine and the Cardiovascular Division at Brigham and Women's Hospital and is an Associate Professor of Medicine at Harvard Medical School.

Recognized as an authority on vascular imaging, Dr. Gerhard-Herman has extensive experience as a lecturer, mentor, and teacher. Each year she devotes hundreds of hours to training medical students, residents, and fellows in the Vascular Diagnostic Laboratory.

She is similarly devoted to improving the lives of her patients and her progeria research subjects.
